THE PATRIOTS.

Under Command of Delgado, Capture the Town of Bujual.

Bahia Honda, Province of Pinar del Rio, Captured and Totally Destroyed—A Spanish Trick Thwarted—An Attempted Assassination Foiled.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 14.—The town of Bujual, which has been attacked several times, was assaulted again Sunday by the force of the patriot leader, Juan Delgado, who, after a short fight, entered the town and captured arms, ammunition and all kinds of supplies needed by his forces, leaving the place after burning about 30 houses.

Bahia Honda, a town of the province of Pinar del Rio, has been captured and totally destroyed by patriots. The Spanish garrison surrendered without resistance.

It is said at Havana that a man by the name of Miguel Bealo was sent by the Havana police to see Baldogro Acosta, the patriot leader who operates around towns near Havana, to arrange a conference and plan for the capture or assassination of the leader. This manner of exterminating Cuban leaders is common in Spanish warfare. A few days ago Patriot Leader Robau ordered the execution of a Spanish emissary who attempted to poison him with a glass of wine.

After an encounter at Purgatorio, Matanzas, between Spanish forces and patriots, the Spaniards retreated with heavy loss to the city of Matanzas. Col. Thomas Carreas and seven more patriots were killed and eight wounded.

It is said that Monday alarm was occasioned at Spanish headquarters on account of the landing of another expedition at Pinar del Rio, where large reinforcements have been sent.

HAVANA, April 14.—A dispatch received by the Diario de la Marina from Madrid says that President McKinley recently offered the friendly mediation of the United States in Cuban affairs. Senor Canovas del Castillo, the prime minister, replied, thanking Mr. McKinley for the offer and requesting that the United States stop the work of filibusters in that country.

HAVANA, April 14.—Smallpox is raging at Guines, a village of 8,000 inhabitants. During the last week there have been 150 victims.

The Garelano battalion, while near Siguanea, came upon three women who were carrying a wounded insurgent. The Spanish killed the insurgent and brought the women to Siguanea.

IKE SHEPPARD.

Who Confesses to Several Murders Under Arrest at Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, April 14.—Ike Sheppard, (colored) wanted in Chicago for the murder of Wm. Brady, in April, 1896, was arrested here Tuesday. Sheppard confesses to not only the murder of Brady, but also to that of John Dougherty, at Webster, W. Va., in 1891, and says he has been mixed up in 18 or 20 other affairs of the kind.

He tells so many stories of murders that the officials are inclined to consider him not altogether sane. Sheppard is 36 years old. He says that in '96, while working on the drainage canal at Chicago, he and Brady, one of the bosses, quarreled over a board bill, and as Sheppard was getting the worst of it, he shot Brady three times, killing him.

The murder of Dougherty, he says, was the result of a fight over a game of cards. Dougherty accused Sheppard of cheating, and the shooting followed, Dougherty being killed with the second shot.

Requisition papers from the governor of Illinois for the return of Sheppard are here, and officers are expected to take him to Chicago.

GUESTS' PARADE.

A New Feature of the Grant Memorial Celebration in New York.

NEW YORK, April 14.—A new feature for the Grant memorial celebration has been added to the programme in the shape of a parade of the guests of the city from the Fifth Avenue hotel to the monument in the morning before the dedication ceremonies.

As matters have been arranged, they will all be driven in open carriages, if the weather is fine, over the same route which the army parade is to follow.

The carriages will form in a regular procession, two abreast, led by Troop A. In the first carriage, drawn by four horses, will be President McKinley, former President Grover Cleveland, Mayor Strong and Gen. Horace Porter. Following them in the other carriages will be the diplomatic corps, members of the cabinet, governors of states, senators, members of congress, generals, admirals, and all sorts of notables.

Grant's New Tomb Ready.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The work of unsealing the new casket in the temporary tomb of Gen. Grant was finished Tuesday night and everything is in readiness for the removal of the body to the crypt of the new tomb. The time of the removal is still kept secret. The sarcophagus is all ready for the reception of the coffin containing the body. The great lid, weighing a ton, has been raised by means of a derrick three feet above the sarcophagus proper, so that the coffin can be slid into the hollowed out portion.

Distinguished Visitors From Japan. SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—A party of distinguished Japanese visitors will leave here for Washington, D. C., Wednesday, K. Komatsu and K. Kuwawa have been appointed delegates to the International Postal congress in Washington by the Japanese government. The other members of the party are N. Katsuka, K. Nanji, Dr. T. Konoo and Z. Kashimoto.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Tuesday's statement of the condition of the treasury shows: Available cash balance, $225,904,991; gold reserve, $153,673,281.

GETTING HOT.

Blows Exchanged on the Floor of the Assembly Room—Lyons Struck by Clarke, But Friends Interfere in Time to Prevent Blood Being Spilt.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 15.—It was rumored Wednesday morning that John W. Gaines, father of Capt. Noel Gaines, had stated that one of the most prominent citizens of Louisville had come to him and offered him money to use in procuring three votes in the legislature for Dr. Godfrey Hunter for United States senator; that the said citizen had been the first and most prominent man in connection with the charges, and that when Gaines, sr., goes before the grand jury a sensation second only to that of the first charges of bribery will ensue.

The 36th ballot for United States senator in the meeting of the joint assembly Wednesday resulted: Hunter, 61; Blackburn, 44; Martin, 12; Boyle, 6; Stone, 1; present and voting, 124; necessary to a choice, 63. No election.

The 37th ballot resulted the same as the 36th, but on the 38th, when the name of Senator Elmore (Blackburn democrat) was reached, he failed to answer, and some little excitement was occasioned. The senate roll call was concluded, and the call of the representatives reached before he was found and came into the hall. One democrat at that time failing to vote would have elected Hunter. Elmore voted, however, at the conclusion of the ballot, which resulted: Hunter, 60; Blackburn, 49; Martin, 12; Boyle, 6; Stone, 1; necessary to a choice, 62. No election. One pair had dropped out.

About this time James McMurry and Representative J. C. Napier came near coming to blows in the rotunda. McMurry accosted Napier for not voting for Hunter when his vote would have elected him. Napier responded hotly, and friends interfered before there was any serious trouble.

McMurry is from Garrard county, the home of Napier.

The fourth ballot of the day resulted: Hunter 61, Blackburn 44, Martin 12, Boyle 6, Stone 1. Necessary to a choice, 63. No election.

The fifth ballot of the day resulted: Hunter 60; Blackburn 43, Martin 12, Boyle 6, Stone 1; necessary to a choice, 62. No election.

At the end of the fifth senatorial ballot Hay moved to adjourn, seconded by Clarke. But when Lyons called for the yeas and nays, seconded by Bennett, Hay withdrew his motion.

During the sixth ballot of the day words passed between Senator Clarke, a bolting republican, and Representative W. H. Lyons (Hunter republican). Clarke struck at Lyons, landing a light blow on Lyons' face. Friends intervened and prevented a desperate fight.

Lieut.-Gov. Worthington ordered the sergeant-at-arms to arrest the parties. Lyons was arrested and taken out. It is said that Senator Clarke had started to draw his pistol. Lyons later resumed his seat.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 15.—The Franklin county grand jury is continuing its investigation of the alleged bribery in the senatorial contest. Graham Vreeland, a newspaper correspondent, was one of the witnesses before the jury. He at first declined to talk and was ordered to jail by Judge Cantrill, but later consented to talk and was released. The investigation may be completed Thursday. The project is that there will be continuous balloting Thursday, but there is nothing in the situation Wednesday night to indicate a breaking up of the deadlock.

NOT ENCOURAGING.

Reports From the Overflowed Mississippi Delta—Feared the Waters Will Not Recede Before June.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 15.—Reports from the overflowed Mississippi delta Wednesday night are not encouraging. The expected fall in the waters, that extend for miles and miles over the fertile valley, has not occurred. Many well known planters express the fear that the yellow stream will not recede until June, too late to plant this year's crop. Much suffering still exists in Sunflower and Rogue Phalia country, where hundreds of Negroes have deserted their cabins and are huddled on high grounds, and the railroad tracks. Many cabins are submerged to their very roofs, while several have been swept from their foundations and carried away by the swift current. On a plantation ten miles west of Helena, Sylvester Sanders, a colored tenant, his wife and five children, were overwhelmed by the current and all perished. Near Greenville Wednesday two Negroes were drowned in an attempt to reach dry land.

Vicksburg, Miss., April 15.—At 6 o'clock Wednesday evening the situation here was a gloomy one. Cloudy, with rains, and a promise of high wind, and the great sea of water slowly but surely rising, promising to go above all work for its retention and the protection of the great valley, is the situation. At 6 p. m. the river had reached 51.6 feet on the gauge. Every inch now is more than a foot some days ago, for miles of the Louisiana line have stood their extreme limit and the rising river is being held back by the most untiring efforts ever made by any people. Human endurance is fast giving way and it is now only a question of how much more and how much longer the working forces can last.

Funds for Flood Sufferers.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 15.—Mr. R. W. Brown, managing editor of the Louisville Times, Tuesday delivered to Gov. Jones $1,259 in cash for relief of flood sufferers. The governor will send his private secretary on a tour through the flooded district to distribute the funds where needed.

Miners Strike.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 15.—The coal miners employed by the Essen Coal Co. on the Panhandle road, struck Wednesday for an advance of six cents per ton in the running rate. Three mines and 600 men are idle.

TARIFF BILL.

Senator Nelson Will Introduce Several Amendments to the Measure.

Nominations Confirmed by the Senate—Postal Authorities Embarrassed by the Failure of Congress to Pass the Appropriation to Defray Expenses.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Much embarrassment to the postal authorities has been caused by the failure of congress to pass the asked for appropriation of $200,000 to defray the expenditures of the International Postal congress to be held here next month. The urgency of the appropriation has been pointed out to congress, but no definite action has yet been taken, though there have been several such provisions inserted in bills introduced. Meanwhile the time for the meeting of the postal authorities of the world is close at hand and arrangements are being made without contracts, payment being contingent on the appropriation of funds. The foreign delegates are rapidly being announced to this government, but the complete personnel of the body will not be known until the opening. Postmaster General Gary has not yet determined on the delegates to represent this country, but will announce them very shortly. Col. Chaille-Long, the African explorer, has been in Washington some time, and will doubtless be one of the delegates. He was a caller on the postmaster general Tuesday and has presented his claims. He is a native of Maryland, and his availability as an accomplished linguist may determine his selection.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Senator Nelson Tuesday gave notice of several amendments to the tariff bill. One of these abrogates after one year the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty. Another declares trusts or combinations for the restraint of trade or enhance the market price of imports or manufactures by two or more persons, either one of whom is an importer, to be "against public policy, illegal and void," and provides for the punishment of the offense by both fine and imprisonment. A third amendment authorizes the president to suspend by executive order the collection of all duties upon any imported article, the home product of which is controlled by a trust.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The senate, in executive session Tuesday, confirmed the following nominations:

Alfred E. Buck, of Georgia, to be minister to Japan; James Boyle, of Ohio, to be consul at Liverpool; Edgar A. Angier, of Georgia, to be U. S. attorney, northern district of Georgia; Marion Erwin, of Georgia, to be U. S. attorney, southern district of Georgia; W. T. Beall, of Leadville, Col., to be register of land office at Leadville, Col.; Alexander J. Cooke, of Mississippi, to be United States marshal northern district of Mississippi; Nathan P. Johnson, of Desmet, S. D., to be agent of the Indians of the Sisseton agency in South Dakota; William B. Ridgely to be postmaster at Springfield, Ill.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The president has decided to recommend to congress an appropriation as indemnity for the killing by a mob of lynchers of three Italian citizens at Hannville, La., August 8, last.

VOORHEES REMAINS

Arrive at the Hooper Capital—Afterward Removed to Terre Haute.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 14.—On account of a wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad, it was necessary to transfer the remains of D. W. Voorhees to a Big Four train, and they arrived here an hour after the time expected. At 1 o'clock they were placed in the retunda of the state capital under a military guard of honor. Gov. Mount, the state officers, the judges of the supreme and appellate courts, the federal officers and the city officers first filed by the coffin to view the body, and afterward came a crowd of citizens passing in single file on each side of the body.

There was a chant by choir boys at the capitol after the body arrived. The body was taken to Terre Haute at 3 o'clock in charge of W. R. McKee and John E. Lamb, representing the citizens of Terre Haute.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 14.—At Greencastle, where is located Depauw university, the late senator's alma mater, the funeral train was received with a salute from the college cannon, while the university cadets were drawn up in line as a mark of respect to the dead.

It was dark when the funeral car reached Terre Haute, but there was an immense assemblage of people. The casket was conveyed to the Terre Haute house, for many years the senator's home, where his body will lie in state until Thursday noon, the burial to take place at two o'clock on that day. Services will be held at St. Stephen's Episcopal church, of which Senator Voorhees was long a member, after which the Masonic fraternity will have care of the funeral ceremonies.

Twelve Still Missing.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 14.—The charred remains of G. W. Roberts, of Pulaski, Tenn., were taken from the ruins of the Hotel Knox Tuesday. The search continues, and it is expected that other bodies will be found Wednesday. Inquiries have been received for a dozen men who are supposed to have been burned. Of the 52 people in the house only about 40 have been accounted for.

The Remains of Consul Lott.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 28.—The remains of Hon. Hiram R. Lott, late United States consul at Managua, who died June 16, 1895, were today disinterred for shipment via San Francisco, to the home of his daughter at Floyd, La.

DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST THE HAYES ESTATE. FREMONT, April 14.—The $25,000 damage suit of Mrs. Addie M. Smith against the estate of ex-President Hayes, was placed on trial Tuesday.

The suit is for injuries alleged to have been received in a runaway caused by a vicious dog of the Hayes family.

INCENDIARISM.

Kansas City at the Mercy of a Band of Firebugs—Several Fires in the Very Business Center of the Hasting City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 15.—Since 9 o'clock Wednesday night Kansas City seems to have been at the mercy of a band of incendiaries. Between 9 o'clock Wednesday night and 1 o'clock Thursday morning, seven fires broke out in the very business center of the city. At least four and probably all of those fires were of incendiary origin. While the majority of the blazes were extinguished in their incipency, two of them resulted in heavy damages. The big five-story Scarritt block, on Walnut street, near Ninth, was destroyed, entailing a loss of $60,000, and from this structure the flames spread to an adjoining structure on Main street, also owned by the Scarritt estate, and occupied by the Campbell & Eaton Crockery Co. The building on Main street was damaged to the extent of $10,000 and the crockery stocks suffered an equal damage. Only by a very narrow margin were other adjoining buildings saved from destruction.

It was while this dangerous fire was raging that the torch was applied in various parts of the business district. At Twelfth and Walnut streets fire was started in a pile of dry goods boxes in an alley. At Twelfth street and Grand avenue the torch was applied to excelsior thrust in the fifth wall of a lodging house. At Fifth and Delaware fire was started in the rear of the Armour building. Another fire was started in the rear of Loose Brothers' cracker manufactory, at Second and Main streets, and still another at Hill's brewery, on the East bottoms. In several of these fires coal oil was freely used by the incendiaries.

At 1 o'clock Thursday morning, when the forces of the fire department were scattered and possibly somewhat demoralized, fire was discovered in C. S. Lovejoy's planing mill, at Fourteenth and Main streets. The fire had gained such great headway that the building was soon enveloped in flames, and within a short time the planing mill, with all its valuable machinery and a big stock of manufactured lumber, was in ruins. The loss is heavy. That this fire and the fire in the Scarritt block were of incendiary origin there is no direct proof, but all the indications are that firebugs alone are responsible.

Nor are the fires of Wednesday night the first of the kind recently. About two weeks ago three fires were started within two days at Twelfth and Walnut streets, but all were extinguished without serious loss.

The loss on Lovejoy's planing mill and machinery is $10,000, and on his stock the loss is $7,000 additional.

What could be the motive of the incendiaries is purely a matter of speculation, but among the excited business men who were gathered about the streets in small groups at 2 o'clock Thursday morning seriously discussing the situation, the opinion is frequently expressed that the gambler element, which has so long held full sway in Kansas City and which is now forced to quit its operations, owing to a complete overhauling of police administration, is at the bottom of the incendiaries.

QUADRUPLE MURDER.

Husband, Wife, Daughter and Boarder the Victims—The Bodies Cremated.

PASCOAG, R. I., April 15.—A quadruple murder was committed at Oakland, R. I., a few miles from this place, early Wednesday morning, at what is known as the old Elisha Mathewson place.

The murderer, in order to cover up his crime, fired the house, but before it was totally destroyed the body of Mrs. Edward Reynolds was taken out. Her head was mashed.

Later the charred body of her 16-year-old daughter was taken out, and it is supposed that the bodies of Edward Reynolds, the husband, and a boarder are in the ruins.

Before the building was destroyed a number of people discovered clots of blood on the floor, where a fierce struggle had evidently taken place.

Martin Mowry, who was missing from the scene of the Reynolds tragedy, was found hiding in a barn near Harrisonville Tuesday forenoon and was at once placed under arrest on suspicion of having been involved in the affair.

Nominations by the President.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The president, Wednesday, sent the following nominations to the senate:

State—James B. Angell, of Michigan, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Turkey; Geo. N. West, of the District of Columbia, consul of the United States to Pietou, Nova Scotia.

War—George D. Meiklejohn, of Nebraska, to be assistant secretary of war.

To be commissioners of the District of Columbia—John B. Wight and John W. Ross.

Treasury—John W. Cunningham, of Idaho, assayer of the United States assay office at Boise City, Idaho.

Justice—Jasper P. Grady, of Indian territory, marshal of the central district in the Indian territory.

War—First Lieutenant E. H. Browne, Fourth infantry, to be captain; Second Lieutenant P. A. Wolfe, Third infantry, to be first lieutenant; Second Lieutenant J. W. Joies, Fifth artillery, to be first lieutenant; Corporal George L. Byroade, Fifth artillery, to be second lieutenant.

To Look After Reciprocity.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—Among the passengers on the steamer Australia from Honolulu which arrived here Wednesday was William A. Kinney, who left Wednesday as special commissioner to Washington. His principal work will be to look after the reciprocity and he will endeavor to secure a renewal of the same.

Vitaseope Pictures All Right.

CHICAGO, April 15.—Dan A. Stuart Wednesday denied the story that the pictures of the Carson prize fight had proved worthless. They are, he said, entirely satisfactory.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

Extraordinary Session.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—SENATE.—The senate Thursday heard Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, for the third successive day on his resolution declaring that a state of war exists in Cuba. It was severely critical of Spain's methods against American prisoners and went over in detail the circumstances in the Competitor case. Mr. Morgan said he would close his speech at the next meeting of the senate, when he would present a letter from one of the Cuban officials of the eastern province of the island showing the complete civil system of government now sustained by the Cubans. Mr. Nelson, of Minnesota, spoke for two hours on the bankruptcy bill, opposing the pending Torrey bill as excessively harsh and designed as a collection agency for large creditors and urging his substitute as a measure drafted in the interest of thousands of poor debtors struggling to get on their feet. HOUSE.—Not in session.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—SENATE.—The senate met at noon Monday for the first time since the death of ex-Senator Voorhees, who, until a recent day, was a conspicuous member of the body. The opening prayer of Rev. Dr. Milburn, the blind chaplain, made an eloquent reference to Mr. Voorhees' brilliant talents, impassioned ardor, kindling eloquence, genuine patriotism and the unselfish dedication of his great powers to every cause, human and divine, which enlisted his career. Divine consolation was invoked for the family of the man who had inscribed his name on the tablets which perpetuate the great orators and statesmen of his generation. Immediately following the prayer Mr. Gorman (Md.) moved as a mark of respect to their late associate that the senate adjourn, adding that many senators desired to attend the funeral. The motion prevailed, and at 12:05 p. m. the senate adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—SENATE.—Senator Morgan, of Alabama, Tuesday, concluded his long speech on the resolution declaring that a state of war exists in Cuba. He did not ask for a vote on the resolution but announced that he hoped to secure a final vote at an early day. The bankruptcy bill was taken up at 3 o'clock. Mr. Lindsay, of Kentucky, defending the measure against criticisms made against it. In the course of the presentation of memorials, Mr. Cockrell of Missouri, announced that he held in his hand one of the stereotyped printed petitions from that distinguished Indianapolis conference, in which they desire congress to surrender to them the right of legislation. He asked that it be referred to the finance committee with the understanding that he did not intend to use it.

HOUSE.—Not in session. WASHINGTON, April 15.—SENATE.—The first skirmish on the tariff question occurred Wednesday. It was followed by a vote which served as a test of strength of the various elements of the senate. The vote occurred on a motion by Mr. Morrill (rep. Vt.) chairman of the committee on finance to refer a resolution by Mr. West, one of the democratic members of the committee. This made the issue between representatives of the two leading elements in the senate. Aside from this, the resolution was in the nature of a criticism of Secretary Gage, and declared illegal his recent order relative to goods imported after April 1, when according to the retroactive clause of the pending Dingley bill, the new tariff rates are to apply.

HOUSE.—Representative Ridgely (pop. Kas.) introduced in this house Wednesday a bill "to enable the unemployed to earn a living, to utilize industry and produce general prosperity." His plan is much like the one advocated by "Gen" Coxey, of Ohio. It authorizes each state, territory, county, city, town, township or school district to raise money for giving employment on public works by issuing non-interest bearing bonds of 25 years, payable only to the United States, not to exceed half the assessed value of the property of the state or municipality. In return for the bonds the United States treasury is to issue treasury notes. Adjourned until Saturday.

JEFFERSON'S BIRTHDAY.

The Event Celebrated in Washington—Wm. J. Bryan the Guest of Honor.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The 154th anniversary of Jefferson's birthday was celebrated Tuesday night at the Metropolitan hotel by a subscription dinner given under the auspices of the National Association of Democratic Clubs. The first celebration of the anniversary of Jefferson's birth occurred at the same hostelry, then known as the Indian Queen. Jackson was the guest of honor, and the occasion was made memorable by the presence of Vice President John C. Calhoun and other democratic leaders of that day. Tuesday night William J. Bryan, of Nebraska, the late democratic candidate for president, was the guest of honor. Senators, representatives and others conspicuous in the counsels of the democratic party were present, many of them were from a distance. Covers were laid for two hundred and many were denied seats for want of space at the tables. The decorations of the room were simple. The columns were twined with southern smilax and a full length portrait of Jefferson, draped with American flags, was hung behind the seat of Gov. Chauncey F. Black, of Pennsylvania, the president of the association. On his right were Bryan, Representative McMillan, who acted as toastmaster, and on the left Senator Jones, of Arkansas, Representative Bland, of Missouri; Lentz, of Ohio, and ex-representative Sibley, of Pennsylvania, and Andrew Lipscomb, of Virginia.

Mr. Bryan was greeted with a lusty cheer as he entered the hall. The menu was carefully prepared, and was similar to such a dinner as might have been served during Jefferson's days. The dishes were all American creations, and each course as far as possible, represented one section of the country.

Plunged From the Fourth Story.

CLEVELAND, O., April 15.—William Bundy, a colored man aged 28 years, committed suicide Wednesday afternoon by throwing himself from the fourth story of a building in the business center of the city. Bundy had been on a spree for several days, and it is thought his mind had become unbalanced. The window from which he jumped was in a colored men's clubroom. His body turned over several times, and his head struck the curbstone, crushing his skull. A large crowd of people witnessed the suicide.

To Manufacture Liquor in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 15.—The senate Wednesday passed an amendment to the Muley law, permitting the manufacture of liquors in Iowa upon separate petitions in the counties. The vote stood 26 to 24, receiving the required constitutional majority. This question has been hanging fire in the state for some time. The bill was to go back to the house, as several amendments were made in the senate, but it is thought will be successfully passed there. This law will permit the manufacture of all kinds of liquor in Iowa, the first time since the passage of the prohibitory law in 1882.

THE DEAR OLD WORLD.

My dear old world, I love you so!
Your rain and frost, and dew and snow,
And rock and river, lake and sea,
Are like familiar friends to me.

I love your mountains, tall and grand,
Your lonesome caves and wastes of sand.
The flowers and ferns that deck the sod
Are all the generous gifts of God.

The other worlds are faint and far,
Each one a point, a speck, a star;
I know them not, their thronging hosts
Are strange and dim, like dreams or ghosts.

But you, my world of light and shade,
I know you well, your beams are laid
Plain in my sight; beneath your dome
I live, and love, and feel at home.

Here was my cradle rocked, and here
My mortal frame shall disappear.
Some blessed hour, in slumber deep,
Back to your heart your child will creep.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"IN MY CASE, THE SEA GAVE UP ITS DEAD."

At ten o'clock on the morning of the 10th Hugh Gordon and Tom boarded the steamer for Wilmington, where they arrived at noon.

Tom had stated at home "that he was going up the river on the steamer, but would be back before the time set for the marriage ceremony."

His father and mother supposed that his errand to town was to procure some present for one or both of the brides.

Arrived in Wilmington, the two gentlemen proceeded to the Carolina hotel to dinner, and at two o'clock stood on the piazza of a brick residence on Chestnut street.

Hugh Gordon thumped on the old-fashioned knocker, and a colored girl opened the door.

"How is the colonel to-day?" asked Gordon.

"De doctor say he much improved; he in de office; come dis away."

They followed the girl into the office. A smooth-faced gentleman, whose silvery hair bespoke the fact that he had passed the meridian of life, was seated in a large rocker before a table on which were arranged before him numerous papers and law books, while from the array along the wall it was evident to Tom that they were in the office of an attorney at law.

"Good day, gentlemen; will you be seated? Hester, will you place chairs for the gentlemen near the table?"

"Colonel," said Gordon, "I trust I find you much improved."

"Very much, Mr. Gordon, thank you." "Allow me, colonel, to introduce my friend Lieut. Thomas Hill."

"Indeed, young man, I am glad to meet you. I have had the pleasure of lifelong acquaintance with your father, but I suppose that he now thinks I am at the bottom of the sea."

"I remember seeing you often, at our home, when a boy, and can assure you, my father greatly regretted to hear of your loss at sea; if I remember it was at the time the Media went down."

"The same, Tom. You will excuse me for calling an old friend's children by their given names."

"I should wish to be called no other, colonel."

"Well, Gordon, how did your snare operate? I suppose Tom is conversant with the matter, or he would not be here in your company?"

"He is fully so, colonel, and together we listened to admissions by Lathrop of his guilt."

Here Gordon related all that had transpired, the night before, in the library at Kendall.

"He is evidently filled with remorse at this time," said Col. Strange, for he it was.

"So much so, that I doubt even if the justice of the law is meted out to him."

"You fear suicide, then?"

"I should not be surprised at any time to hear that he had taken his life. I feel almost certain that he will attempt it, when he is confronted with the charge of murdering his uncle."

"Far better should he die by his own hand," said the attorney. "My poor friend, Lloyd, distrusted Herbert, but little did he think that the youth he educated and raised would prove his assassin."

"Colonel, will you please state to Mr. Hill, the circumstances in regard to the will of the banker?"

"That is soon done: On the 29th day of October, 1829, at just about this hour, John Lloyd sat where you now sit, and at his dictation I drew up his will. He desired to have me act as his administrator, in case of his death. I had all arrangements made for a trip to Europe, and stated that sometimes people were lost at sea, and suggested that he select some one else, or leave a vacancy, until I returned.

"He replied: 'Leave the name vacant, Jim; you know more as to my affairs than does anyone else, and I guess I won't peg out before you return.'"

"No, John, I trust not," I said, "or for many years to come, but should you, the name being absent would not invalidate the will, and the court would see that your daughter was properly protected. In the will was a clause leaving Herbert Lathrop $5,000, and Mr. Lloyd seemed to think that he was treating him very liberally. He said as much, and added: 'If at his age he cannot succeed in life, with the education I have given him and $5,000, he probably would not with more.'"

"Of course, should I live for years and see proper to make his bequest larger, I can do so, but that is enough money to place in the hands of a young man of his age."

"Andrew Bligh, passing as I had concluded writing the will, I called him in, and he and myself signed it as witnesses; but poor Bligh went down with the ill-fated Media, while in my case the sea gave up its dead, that I might aid in bringing to justice the murderer of my old friend."

"Herbert Lathrop altered that will, either directly before or after the murder."

"It was an easy matter for a man proficient with a pen to add a cipher, and change a five to fifty, and it was done. Then seeing that the provisions of the will required no bond, what easier than to insert the name Herbert Lathrop, and the handling of John Lloyd's fortune was in his hands."

"The fortune may have suffered much, but I trust not. He was so anxious to call your sister-wife that he has hardly dissipated much of it, and then, doubtless he was held in check by a knowledge that your father and Clarence would have an eye on him."

"I congratulate you most fervently, young man, on the escape of your sister."

"It has been, indeed, a narrow escape," said Tom. "Then Herbert Lathrop is responsible for the creation of Black Beard?"

"It would seem so, but I have not yet concluded. Two months after drawing John Lloyd's will, I took passage on the Media for Europe; we were wrecked but 100 miles from our destination, and 40 miles from the coast. Passengers and crew were with but three exceptions lost. I was one of the three, a New Yorker, named Murray, and Griswold, the purser, were the other two. We stuck to the wreck, and after four days of the most terrible suffering, were rescued, all others on board trusted to the ship's boats, and were overcome by the tremendous waves, and lost."

"My mind had become so affected by the strain that until three months ago I was an inmate of an asylum in England, but fortune eventually smiled on me, and I have regained my reason. I have now been home two weeks, but it is not generally known, as my physician counsels rest of mind for yet another year, and I do not care to take up the law again. Now it is only necessary for you to go to the courthouse and make affidavit of the facts which you have learned. Warrants will be issued for the apprehension of Lathrop, and officers accompany you back and apprehend him."

At five o'clock Gordon and Tom, with two officers, boarded the Sunshine, but it was yet a good hour before she cast off lines; she delayed as long as could be done with safety in order to give those who desired to attend the wedding an opportunity to do so. However, at 5:30 the little steamer got under way, and it was expected that she would easily reach Orton in two hours, but by a bad stroke of misfortune, she broke the shaft of her propeller when off Town Creek, and yet a good nine miles from Orton.

"The jig is up," said the captain, "here we lay all night, unless we send a boat back for a tug to tow us back to town, we're here for three or four hours certainly. I am sorry, but you'll all miss the double marriage, unless I put you ashore, and you walk, and I haven't time to do that, as I must dispatch a boat for help."

"Captain," exclaimed Tom, quickly, "will you kindly put this party on shore? I must be at my brother's wedding."

"Why, yes, Tom, if you can struggle through those swamps; it's past six now, you have an hour and a half to cover nine miles of swamp and sandy ridges; it is impossible."

"I think not, captain, if you will do so quick. Horrell lives but three miles from here. I'll get a rig from him to carry us from there on."

"True, you may get there in that way, but you'll be worth looking at before you get out of the swamp."

"Mate, send these four gentlemen ashore, then take four good carmen and pull back to town for a tug."

The lieutenant, Gordon and the officers were soon struggling through the swamp in the direction of Horrell's, and there we will leave them and return to Orton.

CHAPTER XXV.

NOT A DOUBLE WEDDING.

At 7:30 on the night of the 10th, the little chapel was brightly illuminated, and a number of neighboring planters, with their wives, were seated and waiting the arrival of the contracting parties to the two marriages that would soon take place.

The first dozen seats in the chapel as one entered the door were filled with a number of the old family servants of the Hills and of John Lloyd.

Uncle Job was there, and felt his importance much, for had he not belonged to Squire Hill's father before him, and had he not trotted on his knee, in their childhood, all of his master's children?

Dinah was there, rigged out in furbelows and ribbons, her round, black face beaming with smiles, and aside from those on the inside of the chapel there were a good number on the outside, waiting to catch a glimpse of young master and miss when they entered the door.

At 15 minutes to eight a carriage rolled up and the clergyman, Rev. Eliot Chambers, with his wife and daughter, descended from it and entered the chapel.

Placing his wife and daughter in seats well advanced, Rev. Chambers entered the vestry, from which ten minutes later he emerged clad in the robes of the Church of England.

At this moment two carriages dashed up from opposite directions. From one descended Squire Hill, his wife, Clarence and Clara; and from the other Fannie, Herbert Lathrop and Aunt Mag.

"I would Tom were here," said the squire, "and the guests from Wilmington. Something must have delayed the steamer. It can't be helped; they may be here to join us in the wedding supper."

"The time has arrived, Clarence. See the clergyman is waiting. Let there never be delay in a marriage."

A moment more and Clarence and Fannie stood before the man of God.

"If there be any here who know of any impediment why this man and woman may not lawfully be joined together in wedlock, let them now speak, or hereafter hold their peace."

There were none who spoke.

"Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?"

Herbert Lathrop looked both pale and nervous as he placed Fannie's hand in that of Clarence, and in a moment more Clarence led his blushing bride one side, and Herbert Lathrop and Clara Hill stood before the altar.

Clara appeared as lovely as ever, but the expression on her face was not one to denote happiness.

But a short distance behind Lathrop, and leaning against one of the pillars of the chapel, was Aunt Mag.

Her quodron face was nearly as pale as Herbert's, and she had been glancing nervously toward the door ever since she had entered the chapel. Now the time had come, and he who was to attend to the balance was not there.

"Da fails me! Da fails me!" thought Mag, "but ole marster, I done swear the man what murdered you shall never marry Clara Hill. A nigger's oath don't count, marster, but dis do," and she clutched tightly the handle of the knife that her dress skirt concealed.

"If there be any present who know of any impediment why this man and this woman may not lawfully be joined together in wedlock, let them now speak, or hereafter hold their peace."

"I knows, marster!" and the tall quodron stood erect.

Every eye in the chapel was turned towards her with astonishment.

She knew that to pause would be fatal to her purpose, as she would be ejected from the chapel as insane, and before the onlookers could recover from their astonishment, she hastened on.

"Herbert Lathrop murdered his uncle. I saw him strike the blow. It was not Angus Bruce."

At that moment steps were heard on the piazza of the chapel.

"He struck the blow from behind the back of Angus, and 'cused him of the crime. I was the only witness, an' a nigger's oath don't go; but Herbert Lathrop killed ole marster."

All seemed paralyzed. Herbert's white face was whiter yet, and his hand dropped towards his hip pocket.

Clara had turned towards her father, and was hysterically ejaculating:

"Home, father; take me home!"

Fannie was leaning on the arm of Clarence, speechless.

"She is crazy!" suddenly exclaimed Herbert: "always was crazy!"

"Certainly," said the squire: "you were foolish to bring her here. This is very unpleasant. All know who killed John Lloyd. He fled as a result of the crime, and has become notorious the world over. This poor creature is insane. Remove her, Corbett."

"Poor Aunt Mag," said Fannie; "she has surely lost her mind," and she tried to go to her, but Clarence restrained her.

"I will proceed," said the clergyman. As Corbett stepped towards Aunt Mag her shawl fell from her head and shoulders, and her long black hair fell to her very waist. "Mag ain't forget, marster!"

A step nearer Lathrop, and one long arm was raised on high; from the hand gleamed the glittering blade of a dirk knife. "Mag won't fail!"

"Hold!"

It was a voice of command. Even Mag stood still, with the knife-blade poised in the air, as Hugh Gordon and Tom, followed by the two officers, strode down the aisle.

"I forbid the marriage of Herbert Lathrop and Miss Hill," said Gordon. "What mean you?" exclaimed the squire. "You are a stranger here. What impediment can you know of to my daughter's marriage?"

"None, Squire Hill, to your daughter's; many to Herbert Lathrop's. Aunt Mag has told the truth. John Lloyd died by the hand of his nephew. Lathrop is a self-confessed murderer."

"Last night in the library at Kendall Lieut. Hill and I heard his admissions of guilt."

"He altered his uncle's will, inserted his name in a space left vacant for that of your friend, Col. Strange, and then committed the crime that holds Angus Bruce in exile, for under the very arm of Bruce did he thrust the keen blade that let out the banker's life, and then the monster placed the crime on Angus—Aunt Mag saw it all, and none else."

"Lathrop had Bruce at his mercy. When Miss Lloyd entered the library, Angus, in horror, had just drawn the fatal blade from the banker's breast."

"Col. Strange was not lost when the Media went down, but has returned. He drew the banker's will, and has stated wherein Lathrop altered it."

"Your son knows it all. But look at Lathrop, squire; his appearance speaks for itself."

Herbert's eyeballs were almost starting from their sockets. In that terrible moment he had forgotten that he stood by the side of Clara Hill, the girl whose hand to obtain, together with his uncle's wealth, had caused him to dye his hand with blood.

"The dead return to thwart me! Aunt Mag turned traitor, too!"

Fannie lay unconscious in the arms of Clarence, while Clara, leaning on the arm of her father, stood white and silent as a statue.

"Officers," said Gordon, "do your duty."

The officers started towards Herbert with the handcuffs.

All in the chapel were on their feet. The spell that bound the assassin seemed suddenly broken. "All, all goes wrong! but Mag, the traitor," and before the officers could reach him, he raised his weapon and fired.

The quodron fell in the main aisle of the chapel, and with one frantic cry Herbert leaped on the chancel, vanished through an open vestry door, thence out into night and darkness, and after him the two officers of the law.

A FIGURE OF SPEECH.

Mrs. Jimson Wanted to Know the Meaning of a Common Saying.

"What does it mean about letting the cat out of the bag?" asked Mrs. Jimson meditatively making imaginary letters with a forefinger.

"Oh, it's just a figure of speech," answered Mr. Jimson.

"Do you mean a cat's figure?"

"Bless the woman, she's gone daft on cats."

"No, really, Cyrus, 'the cat' must mean some particular one. Now, what cat has been let out of a bag?"

"Polly, you've got me there! I haven't an idea where cat it was."

"Well, it sounded mysterious and queer. I heard some one say, just as I was going on a car this morning: 'The cat's out of the bag.'"

"You don't imagine, Polly, they were talking of you?"

"But, Cyrus, it was only yesterday I sent that old black cat that came into our cellar away in a bag."

"O-ho, Polly! The cat's out of the bag with a vengeance."

"But how did it get out? I told Henry to carry it down to the river and mercifully drown it in a bag."

"It evidently got out."

"But how did anyone know whose cat it was?"

Mrs. Jimson was beginning to cry, and Mr. Jimson's face relaxed a little of its severity.

"Polly, it's all right, only you were born a decade too soon. You'll catch on some of these days, and then you'll be able to distinguish between a joke and a sermon. Now, just remember this. Next to letting a cat out of a bag the worst thing is to try and crowd it in again. 'S'long, Polly.'"—Chicago Times-Herald.

SHE TURNED UP AGAIN.

Raft Proved to Be a Poor Conveyance for an Emigrant.

"I rode up to a cabin in Knox county, Ky.," said John Williams, a traveling man, to a Star reporter, "and as I approached the man of the house, inquired:

"Stranger, did you see a red-headed gal with a yaller sunbonnet comin' from town?"

"No."

"I reckon she'll be hyer tomorrow."

"Expecting company?"

"No; jess my darter. She's been down ter Frankfort. She tuk in her head ter get married an' run off with a ne-count feller, Tim Hadley. They stole a raft of mine an' floated down the Kaintuck ter Frankfort."

"Did you stop them?"

"No; mail gits ter Frankfort quicker'n a raft, so I witer Jim Wakefield down thar ter buy th' logs, put Tim in jail fer stealin' th' raft, an' send th' money back hyer with Sal. I reckon she missed the stage."

"At that moment a girl turned the corner of the road, and the old man said:

"Waal, Sal, you got back?"

"Yas, dad."

"Tim in jail?"

"Yas, dad."

"Bring back th' money fer the logs?"

"Yas, dad."

"Waal, go in an' cook supper, an' nex' time you git married, run off with a man who has more gumption than ter try ter git away on a raft."

"Yas, dad," and the girl went to the kitchen as though she had never left it."—Washington Star.

Scene in the Paris Salon.

When the fashionably dressed members of Parisian society, who attended the "Vernissage," were surveying the pictures of the newly opened salon, sounds of smashing glass were heard to one of the rooms. A search was made in that direction, and the excited onlookers saw an elegantly dressed young lady vigorously poking her sunshade through one of the pastels. She was removed by the guardians present, and it then transpired that the mischief doer was the wife of the painter whose picture was destroyed. She said she had committed the act because her husband had persisted in displaying on canvas the charms of a lady whom she regarded as a rival. She also promised to recommence these vigorous remonstrances on the first opportunity.—London Telegraph.

Sounded Like It.

Two little boys in knickerbockers were gazing through the gate of a North River ferryboat at an ocean liner as she forged majestically up stream.

"What's the name on her stern?" said one little boy.

"I don't know, Johnnie," said the other. "I can't read it."

"The name is Civic," volunteered a fatherly-looking man with gold-bowed spectacles.

Both little boys looked puzzled.

"What name did you say it was?" asked Johnnie.

"Seaside, I thought he said," replied the other little boy. "That's funny, ain't it?"—N. Y. Sun.

Had Earned It.

Togg—"Who gave you that black eye?"

Mildew—"Nobody; I earned it! I called a man a liar."—Tid-Bits.

FOR LATE SPRING AND SUMMER.

Seasonable Suggestions Concerning Ladies' Costumes.

Summer models this season give the effect of being very simple, even though they are lavishly trimmed. The frills and furbelows are laid on in masses, so that they do not offend our artistic sense.

Favorite frocks for general summer wear will be of black taffeta, trimmed with bias folds, set on at equal distances, all about the skirt and bodice. A small Botticelli decolletage, with several guimpes, both silk and muslin, a bright girdle and a bright silk lining, will complete this with distinction, perhaps a double frill of lace and taffeta crossing the bodice down one side. The bodice will, of course, blouse scantily all about.

Blouse waists of white satin are to be the smartest in a large wardrobe of fashionable waists and shirts. Built with a tucked yoke, and tucked sleeves, having a small pouch atop, a stock of satin or of lace will be worn, and a ribbon belt, very narrow and very tight. They will be fashioned again with encircling shingles, and a stock of bright taffeta tied in front, or will be very full and shirred across the bust, and just above the belt, with a cluster of tiny puckers.

Some of the prettiest summer frocks will be of embroidered French lawn, the skirt in Victorian flounces of various arrangements. The bodices will be of lawn muslin, laid in lingerie tucks and blouses, and will be decorated sparsely with applique motifs of embroidered lawn. Elbow sleeves with ruffled shoulders and a round, chokerless neck, will be modish, if one's throat and forearm can stand so trying a fashion.

Colored muslins and lawns, cashmeres and crepe de chimes come in pattern sets, the skirts having borders and bands about the knees and hips, the bodices having emplacements in various yoke and bolero effects, the sleeves being very small gignots of the all-over embroidery.

The popular manner of building a bodice of any material, from cloth and silk to muslin and chiffon, is en blouse. It bags not only just in front, but all about above a very tight and very slender girdle or belt. Hardly a woman in Paris but sports two or three, and hardly are two just alike, although they are almost inevitably fastened down one side of the front.

Even trimmed bodices will be bloused all about above the belt, one such being specially stunning, of bright green cashmere, fashioned of five plisse frills, which encircle the figure from throat to just above the tight belt of violet moire silk.

Hip yokes of lace are to be fashionable for summer frocks, those on foulard being the smartest. A red and white silk, with a cream lace yoke, is dainty with a pointed yoke of rose plisse mull on the bodice, this framed with a broad bias strip of red taffeta, from which falls a frill of cream lace.

A white foulard almost covered with figures in gray and black is lightened admirably with a cream lace jacket with hip skirts. This is worn over a plisse bodice of pink muslin, red velvet ribbons forming double girdle, choker and straps to gather up the fullness of the sleeve draperies. These sleeves end at the elbow very cutely with a turned-up frill of lace held in place by a band of red velvet, tied with a crisp bow on the outside of the arm.—N. Y. Sun.

GRANDMAMMA CRITICISES.

Girlhood of the Period Sadly Indifferent to Old-School Etiquette.

"When I was a young lady," says grandmamma, "we were not allowed to help ourselves in our walk with our arms, in the jerky, ungraceful way that girls do nowadays, and which gives such a particularly ugly gait. Only apes and monkeys use their arms to assist locomotion, I used to be told. With man arms and hands should be only the servants of the brain, and when they are not in use they should be taught to repose. Girls especially were trained to cultivate a quiet demeanor. What were then called 'fidgets' were never allowed, and acting on the principle inculcated by Dr. Watts that 'Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do,' the latter were always provided with some sort of occupation."

"When a young lady went out in the evening she invariably carried a fan and a lace handkerchief. In the street she had her muff or her parasol, and at home she had always some dainty bit of work in the drawing-room that she could take up at odd times."

"As for crossing our legs or sticking our feet in the way they do nowadays, we would have as soon thought of flying."

"No one will ever make me believe," said another venerable grande dame of the olden school, "that that Miss Parvenue, whom they all think so charming, is a lady. She called on my granddaughter the other day and had on only one glove, the other hand she kept in her muff, but I could see that it was actually bare."

That gloves should be put on and neatly buttoned at home is another time-honored precept that is taken little heed of at present, but which in the good old days, when everything was as it should be—according to our grandparents—was an unwritten law equal to those of the Medes and Persians in strictness. Kentucky Senators Are Costly.

It has already cost the State about $75,000 to try to elect a United States Senator. All of this expense may be laid upon the senatorial contest, for no other important legislation has resulted from either this or last year's session. It has been thirty-one days since the present Legislature assembled, and not a single bill has been signed by the Governor. The senatorial contest is in such shape that it may drag on for several weeks, unless something unexpected happens, and until it is settled there will not be much legislation. The sessions averaged over one hour a day during the past four weeks, and it is a rare thing for a Senate or House committee to hold an afternoon meeting. Were it not for the senatorial race it would be difficult to have a quorum in either house.

The State Democratic Executive Committee called a State convention to be held June 2 at Frankfort to nominate a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. County mass meetings to select delegates will be held May 29 at 2 p. m.

Throat Coughs

Is there a tickling in the throat? Do you cough a great deal, especially when lying down? Are you hoarse at times? Does nearly every cold you take settle in your throat? These "throat coughs" are very deceptive. Don't neglect them. Troches, or cough syrups won't touch the spot. You must take remedies that will enrich the blood, tone up the nerves; and heal the inflamed membranes.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites contains such remedies. It has wonderful nourishing and healing power. The cause of the cough is removed; the whole system is given new life and vigor; and the danger from threatening lung trouble is swept away.

Almost Distracted?

DID YOU EVER suffer from nervousness? When every nerve seemed to quiver with a peculiar, creepy feeling, first in one place, and then another and all seemed finally to concentrate in a writhing jumble in the brain, and you become irritable, fretful and peevish; to be followed by an impatient, weakened condition of the nerve centers, ringing in the ears, and sleepless, miserable nights?

Dr. Miles' Nervine Restores Health.....

was almost gone and every little thing worried me until I was almost distracted. I really feared I was becoming a maniac. I imagined all sorts of evil things and would cry over nothing. I commenced taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and four bottles of this wonderful remedy completely cured me, and I am as well now as I ever was.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on guarantee, first bottle will benefit or money refunded.

BOURBON CIRCUIT COURT.

James W. Lancaster, etc., Plaintiffs.
vs.
Charles Humble, etc., Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment of the Bourbon Circuit Court made and entered in the above styled cause on the 17th day of March, 1897, I will sell publicly to the highest bidder, at the Court house door, in Paris, Kentucky, on between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 2 o'clock p. m., the following described property, to-wit:

FRIDAY, APRIL 30TH, 1897,

A certain lot situated in the city of Paris, Bourbon county, Kentucky, and described as follows: Beginning at the corner of lot of Stratford Batts in 14th or Cross street and running with the line of Stratford Batts fifty feet more or less to Eli Redmon's line, then with said Redmon's line back toward High street, one hundred feet, then with line of Wilson Brown fifty feet more or less to 14th or Cross street, then with said 14th or Cross street one hundred feet to the beginning, and is the same property conveyed to Harrison Jackson by Sheriff of Bourbon county and Edmond Butler by deed recorded in Bourbon County Clerk's office, in Deed Book No. 59, pages 446, 447 and 448.

Said sale will be made on a credit of six months and the purchaser will be required to execute bond, with good security, to be approved by the undersigned Master Commissioner, bearing interest from date of sale until paid at the rate of six per cent. per annum, but by express order of the court, if any of the parties to this suit who are part owners of said property become the purchasers thereof they shall execute bond for the amount of the interest of the remaining owners and for the costs. Said property is sold for the purpose of division.

A Word To The Young Folks.

THE weather is growing milder, and soon bright, sunny days will be here, and all the young folks will have a chance to breathe out-door air. Tarr & Templin, the popular planing mill men, are doing a liberal part to help the young folks enjoy the Spring-time—fitting up a big lot of their patent swings—just the thing for mild out-door outings. Cheap and substantial, and safe and easy for a child to operate.

A prize—a free swing—is offered to the child (fifteen years or under,) who writes the best advertisement for the "Templin Swing." Send in your ad. This competition will close April 25th—a number of young people having asked for a little more time to finish their advertisements—hence the extension. Send yours in now and be in time.

Another Bourbon Pike Free.

PARIS can now be entered from any precinct free of toll and not a tollgate has been removed by raiders. Out of about fifty pikes in Bourbon all are practically free except the Bethlehem, Hume & Bedford, Townsend and the Maysville & Lexington pikes. The roads have been acquired by gift, by trade and by purchase and Bourbon county has not had a gate removed in an unlawful manner within its limits.

The Fiscal Court yesterday secured control of ten miles of the Georgetown pike and the road will be made free today. The court agrees to pay six percent on the appraised value of the road—about $6,500—and will buy the road in five years. The court also secured control of the Mt. Sterling & Flat Rock (2½ miles) pike by assuming its debt of $110.

Justices Boulden and Lilleston were appointed a committee to go over the Paris & Jacktown pike (10 miles) and examine same. This road will probably be secured in a few days.

The court will meet again next Friday.

Will of Socrates Bowles.

THE will of Socrates Bowles has been probated and filed at the County Clerk's office.

The instrument desires that his marriage contract ($5,000) with his wife, Mary Duke Bowles, be strictly complied with. In addition to this he bequeaths to her one bed room set of furniture and a horse and buggy to be selected by her.

The remainder of his property is divided among his four children—Mrs. Hannah Butler, (wife of H. A. Butler, of Vine street, this city), Mrs. Mary E. Alexander, of Muir, Nathan C. Bowles and John W. Bowles, of Missouri.

Henry Spears is appointed by testators to be trustee for Mrs. Mary E. Alexander, land directed to hold her portion of the estate in trust for her. The property is to revert to her children and is not to be subject to debts of anyone.

J. J. McClintock is selected as trustee for Mrs. Hannah Butler, and her portion is subject to the same conditions as Mrs. Alexander's.

The testators appoints Robert L. Bowles sole executor without bond.

The will is dated Sept. 19, 1893, and is attested by Dr. Wash Fithian and G. W. Judy.

The estate consists of about 300 acres of fine Bourbon land.

Easter Services At The Catholic Church.

THE impressive Easter Sunday service at the Catholic Church, Rev. E. A. Burke, Rector, will begin at 9:30 a. m. A special musical program has been arranged. The following mass will be sung:

Shooting Tournament.

THE Hill Top Gun Club has sent out an announcement of a shoot at English sparrows and blue rocks, next Thursday at Alfred Clay's, near Stony Point. The tournament will be under the direction of Messrs. Alfred and Geo. W. Clay. There will be ten events and liberal prizes for amateurs. Blue rocks will be thrown from a maugotrap—the first ever used in Kentucky. Lunch and burgoo will be served free.

Riley Grannon Wins His Suit.

RILEY GRANNON has won his suit against the Westchester Racing Association. The Appellate division of the Supreme Court of New York Tuesday decided that the rule under which Grannon was excluded from the privileges of the track is without force and utterly void. Grannon's attorney was Gen. B. F. Tracy.

HON. JOHN W. YERKES, of Danville, brother of Mayor W. L. Yerkes, of this city, has bought the fine old J. W. Gill place in Danville for $3,225 cash. The place contains thirty acres of ground and a handsome residence of the plantation style. It was bequeathed to the Bible College at Lexington by the late Dr. J. W. Gill. Mr. Yerkes may use it as a residence.

JIM SROUT, a negro, charged with robbing John Bryan several nights ago on High street, was tried Wednesday in Judge Webb's court, and held over in $250 bail for trial by the Circuit Court.

Tollgate Destruction.

In Mercer Tuesday night thirty-five armed men destroyed a tollgate and left a notice threatening Keeper Lyon with instant death if he collected another cent of toll was tacked on the door.

The raiders have threatened a Lancaster newspaper man with violence if he continues to denounce them.

The raiders have not yet removed a gate on the Maysville & Lexington pike, owned by Col. W. W. Baldwin. Fear of relentless prosecution by Col. Baldwin makes them hesitate.

A. O. Kendall, special collector at the most important gate in Fleming, has been warned that if he continued to collect toll he would be visited by 200 raiders and severely cowed. Kendall has armed himself and is determined to collect the toll. The turnpike corporation is a powerful one and will back him up.

Keepers of tollgates in Madison have armed themselves and will shoot to kill when their gates are attacked.

The determination to collect toll in Mercer will probably cause the raiders to use the torch and dynamite. People in certain portions of Mercer, Garrard and Madison live in constant fear of being blown up by dynamite or cremated.

A gate in the center of the village of Helena, Mason county, has been removed, and one on the Helena and Maysville pike was also removed the same night. A reward of $200 has been offered for the arrest and conviction of all or any one of the mob.

James Anderson, toll-gate keeper on the Owensville and Water Dell turnpike, in Bath county, has received a written notice to stop collecting toll at his gate under serious penalty. He will continue to collect as usual.

The Carlisle Mercury says: "Raiders have removed in the past week seven gates as follows: The Mastin and Brayfield gates on the Carlisle and Sharpsburg road; Mrs. Welch's on the Parks' Ferry pike; Frank Quiet's on the Bramblett pike, Louderback's on the Miller's Station road; the one nearest Moorefield on the road to Upper Blue Lick, and the one on the Locust Grove road. At each of the gates the keepers were warned against collecting further toll, and as yet, so far as we can learn, no toll is being collected. No damage was done to the houses, and no one hurt. The first party was composed of about fifteen, and the Sunday night gang of nine or dozen. In some instances the raiders were not masked, and it is said that several of them were identified, but no names have been given out."

OBITUARY.

Respectfully Dedicated To The Memory Of The Dead.

Sam'l C. Hume, youngest son of D. J. Hume, of Elizabeth, died Wednesday at Mexico, Mo. He leaves a wife, who was formerly Miss Annie Hortense Redmon. The remains will arrive here this morning on the 11:15 L. & N. train and the burial will occur at the local cemetery, with services by Rev. E. H. Rutherford. The pall-bearers will be Chas. Redmon, John Clay, Castle Redmon, J. W. Wright, Jo Redmon, J. B. Frakes, Joe Lair.

Mrs. Mollie McClure Owens, wife of W. H. Owens, railway postal clerk on the L. & N., between Covington and Maysville, died suddenly Tuesday of apoplexy at her home in Covington. The deceased was a daughter of the late John T. McClure, and was a sister of Mr. James McClure, of this city, Dorsey McClure, of Covington, and Miss Mattie McClure, of New York. She was forty-eight years old and is survived by a husband and five children—the youngest 2½ and the elder 17 years of age. The remains were brought to this city yesterday morning on the 11:15 L. & N. train and were interred at the local cemetery. Services were held at the grave by Rev. E. G. B. Mann. The pall-bearers were Messrs. G. T. McCarney, R. J. Neely, J. D. McClintock, E. T. Beeding, J. J. McClintock and J. P. Hutchcraft.

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

Jerusalem Is Not Disillusionizing to the Western Visitor.

A city beautiful! On Palm Sunday, from the stairway near the spot where Mary stood when the body of her Son was taken from the cross, I saw the Greek procession in the Church of the Sepulcher. Then I went over to the Mount of Olives. Looking back from a field well up on the hillside, the whole city lay beneath—the temple area, with the great mosque in full view across the valley of Jehoshaphat. From here Jerusalem, with its clear and stately outline of walls, the domes and minarets of the mosques, and the old towers and churches, has a singular completeness. Perhaps, even in Solomon's time, from the outside, though different, it was not more lovely. The warm gray of the stones of the city is the color of the unbleached wool of goats; the hills are darker, with a delicate bloom over them, spotted with gray olive orchards, and melting in the distance into violet. It is indeed a city set upon a hill, isolated, distinguished. The picture realizes one's lifelong dream of the city of God.

The sunset sky was wild and cold, with streaks of sunshine. The rain ceased, and the air grew warm. In the rich, low light all blemishes were lost, and the City Beautiful was spread before the pilgrim's eyes. Perhaps it was here that Christ wept over Jerusalem; along or near this path He must have come on the day of His "entry" on the first Palm Sunday, whose feast was being kept this very day throughout all Christendom. There were no other travelers; a few Syrians passed by. I gathered some flowers by the wayside and turned again homeward.

You see that we did not find the Holy Land disillusionizing. There are many things that confound the western mind; there is filth and degradation and superstition. But here is the same sky, the same landscape, the same dominating Orient. The painter who knows the Holy Land best said to us in Jerusalem: "At times when I look at these fields, and realize that this very picture was reflected in the eyes of Jesus, I feel myself shiver." The Bible, no matter what one's theology or philosophy, here takes on a vitality and meaning beyond the power of conception hitherto. Are the places real? Jerusalem, all Syria, is real, and some of the "sacred places" are unquestionable. But you do not have to be sure that the place is exact, when you listen, with a new emotion, to the words of Jesus, repeated by the French monk on Good Friday, and at that "station of the cross" where Christ cried out: "Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for Me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children."—Richard Watson Gilder, in Century.

TOMATOES POPULAR IN ITALY.

All Classes of King Humbert's Subjects Take to the Vegetable.

In every house and cottage in Italy the preserving of tomatoes is carried on. Terraces, balconies and even the flat roofs of the houses are half covered with plates containing the deep red substance. After gathering, the tomatoes intended for preserving are spread out for some hours in the sun till the skin has somewhat shrunk. They are then passed through a sieve so that they may be freed both from seeds and skins. As they contain a larger proportion of water the substance which has been passed through the sieve must be hung in bags, from which the water exudes, and soon a pool of dirty-looking water is formed beneath each bag. Strange to say, it is in no way tinged with red.

The mixture which remains in the bags has the consistency of a very thick paste. It is then salted, the proportion being a little less than one ounce of salt to a pound of preserve. The process now requires that it shall be spread on flat plates, exposed to the sun and stirred from time to time with a wooden spoon, so that the upper part may not form a crust, while underneath it remains soft. It is a picturesque sight when the women are to be seen flitting about on the roofs and terraces, attending to the deep red preserve, their colored handkerchiefs flung on their heads to screen them from the rays of the burning sun when it is at its fiercest. In the evening the contents of the various plates are taken in and stirred up together, for if moistened by the night dew the whole would be spoiled. After being exposed to the sun for seven or eight days, the same process being repeated each day, the preserve is finished and placed in jars for winter use.

Though it is used for all classes of persons, it is more necessary to the poor than to the rich, for the latter can make use of the fresh tomatoes preserved in tins. Tomatoes may be tinned whole, as we know from those usually imported into England from America. But in Italy the fruit is usually passed through a sieve, the pulp being then placed in tins, which are immediately soldered down and then put in boiling water for five minutes. The cost of a small tin is half a franc, so it is, as a rule, beyond the means of the poor.—Chamber's Journal.

Fresh Fish.

In many places in warm climates it is customary to keep fish alive until they are sold. It would otherwise be impossible to keep them from spoiling, except by too expensive refrigerating. The marketman is likely to be the fisherman himself, and to keep his catch in a well on his boat or in a slatted box in the water. The buyer looks over the fish and picks out the one he wants, and the seller then kills the fish with a blow on the head with a club, or with a knife. It is a common thing to kill the fish in the presence of the customer. Fish are sold in this way at, for instance, Key West, Havana and Genoa.—N. Y. Sun.

EASTER SONG.

WAKE, awake, O earth!
Thy many voices raise,
And let thy echoing hills
Repeat the note of praise.
Let all thy isles rejoice!

Let seas take up the strain—
Christ from the dead hath come
He lives, He lives again!

Awake, awake, O earth!
Forget the hour of gloom
When in thy shuddering breast
Thy Maker claimed a tomb.
Put off thy wintry robes
For garb of joyous spring;
Crown thee with lilies fair
To greet the risen King!

Bring treasures of the field,
Bring leaf and blossom sweet,
Thy choicest and thy best,
Before His pierced feet.
While all thy sons are glad,
And tears are put away,
Let youth and age alike
Sing Christ is risen to-day!

Lift up thy gates with praise,
And robes of joy put on,
The Lord of Life and Death
Hath risen to His throne.
He hath gone up on high,
And giveth gifts to men;
He lives, no more to die,
Alleluia, Amen.

—Lucy Randolph Fleming, in Harper's Bazar.

MISS GRANT'S EASTER EVE.

MISS SARAH GRANT stood at the window of her little dining-room looking out at the tiny yard that separated her cottage from the street. It was the last day of March, but the air was full of the magnetic influence of spring. The grass was freshening while in the bed of brown earth at the right of the walk hardy daffodils, jonquils and one adventurous hyacinth nodded to the passers-by.

Miss Grant sighed a little impatiently as she turned from the window. Her neatly spread tea table stood waiting. There was a solitary cup, saucer and plate, each of rare old china. The silver was massive, of the fashion of a half century ago. There were slices of snowy home-made bread, all cut of exactly the same thickness, a pot of golden butter, a chicken salad, milk, a glass of amber jelly, and sugared doughnuts. It looked tempting. But the cloud did not lift from Miss Grant's face as she brought the steaming teapot from the kitchen and seated herself for her evening meal. She bowed in silence for a moment. Then, adjusting her napkin carefully over her neat black cashmere, she said to herself:

"And to-morrow's April Fool's day, too! As if there wasn't enough to bother without that! For the fact of its being Sunday won't make any difference with those unruly boys. Well, if they attempt to play any tricks upon me they'll suffer, that's all."

Had the most daring urchin in Glenville beheld the scowl upon Miss Sarah's face he would have hesitated long before attempting to "fool" her. She creamed her tea and slowly buttered a slice of bread.

"I haven't the heart to eat," she exclaimed a moment later. "To think that a Grant should have his home sold on a mortgage. I'm glad our father didn't live to know it."

Miss Sarah had devoted the earlier part of the afternoon to making calls. It was at Mrs. Atherton's that some one had spoken of John Grant, Miss Sarah's only brother. There was an awkward pause, then dear old Grandma Atherton said, gently:

"Sarah, you will pardon your mother's friend if she tells you something. John's home is to be sold on the mortgage in three weeks. Did you know it?"

"No," was Miss Grant's uncompromising reply.

"It is too bad," grandma went on, after a moment. "He mortgaged it to get money to take his wife to New York for medical aid. It did her no good, poor thing. Well, times are hard and a man with an invalid wife and six small children finds it almost impossible to live on a clerk's salary."

There was no softening of Miss Sarah's face. After a few minutes she stiffly bowed herself out. Grandma Atherton watched her pass down the street, a troubled expression on the usually placid old face.

"I'm so sorry," she said, shaking her silvered head. "Sarah could so well afford to help John. She has been growing richer all these years while he has been growing poorer."

This was the subject Miss Sarah was revolving in her mind as she sat at the tea table. It was 20 years since the death of her parents. The family wealth had been equally divided between John and herself. Her share, invested in her present home and judicious loans, had doubled. John had gone into business, lost heavily through a dishonest partner, signed a note with a supposed friend, and paid it, then been glad to accept a situation as clerk. Five years ago he had asked his sister to advance money on his pretty home. Sarah had refused curtly and scolded him for incurring needless expense.

"It may do no good," he admitted, "but I cannot let Amy suffer as she does without one more effort for her relief."

"I don't believe there is much the matter with Amy," the sister declared. "Somehow the pink and white prettiness of Amy Grant had always exasperated Miss Sarah. "If she'd exert herself more and—"

But John rose hastily. "We will not discuss that. It is time I was at the store," and he walked proudly away. Years had widened the breach. Mrs. Grant was still an invalid. The six children were all overflowing with spirits, rosy-checked and happy. Sadie, the oldest, at fifteen played at being housekeeper and nurse. The house was always bright and clean, but it was too noisy and disorderly to suit fastidious Miss Sarah. Sadie, too, was another grievance. She was a dimpled-faced girl with her father's clear gray eyes and proud poise of the head.

"A regular Grant," Miss Sarah said to herself. "I'd take her and do well by her. But I won't soon forget Madam Amy's almost indignation at my proposal. 'Give away one of my children? O, I couldn't think of such a thing,' she said. Then there is her ridiculous name. She was christened Sarah Catherine, but it's too plain and old-fashioned, so she's Sadie now."

The shadow of evening had gathered while Miss Grant sat over her untasted supper. She pushed her plate away and was about to rise when a gentle rap sounded on the door. Without waiting to light a lamp she opened the door, and peered out in the fast falling darkness. No one was there. Her foot struck against something lying on the doorkill. It was a long, narrow package, apparently a box. A great wave of anger rolled over the spinster's head.

"How dare those boys try fool tricks on me!" she muttered. "If I had 'em here I'd teach 'em a lesson, right quick," and with one sturdy kick she sent the obnoxious box half way to the street.

"O, Miss Sarah!" cried out a child's piping voice. "What air you doing that to your Easter present?"

"What are you doing here, Maggie Smith?" Miss Grant demanded, sharply. "Are you concerned in this disgraceful affair? Come here this minute and tell me all about it."

Frightened by the sternness of the voice, Maggie came whimpering and trembling.

"I jest don't know nothin'," she declared.

"WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE, MAGGIE SMITH?"

clared. "I was comin' down the street with this 'ere loaf of bread ma sent me after when I seed Miss Effie Dean come up your walk. She laid down that bundle, knocked on the door and skipped. Hope to die, Miss Sarah, that's everything I know."

Miss Grant was puzzled. She vainly tried, in the dim light, to scan Maggie's face.

"Bring me that package," she said, sternly.

Maggie obeyed.

"Now go straight home. If I find you have deceived me in any way I shall see that you are severely punished."

Trembling with fear, Maggie started. Upon reaching the street, she broke into a run. As for Miss Sarah, she carried the mysterious package into the dining-room, lighted a lamp, pulled down the window shades, looked the door and sat down to think. Effie Dean—the sweet, refined daughter of Miss Sarah's pastor! Would she insult the old woman to whom she had always been so kind? Surely not. What had Maggie meant about Easter? A moment's thought—yes, the morrow was Easter as well as All Fools' day. She felt a twinge of conscience as she remembered that her anger against the prospective pranks of the boys had blotted out her memory of Christ's proven immortality. She came back to the present with a start. There lay the bundle.

"Why don't I open it?" she queried. "Of course, it's all nonsense. As likely as not another bit at my being an old maid."

Upon removing the paper she found a pasteboard box. Taking off the cover she held her breath in astonishment. There, on a bed of softest moss, lay great clusters of Easter lilies. The woman felt her anger slipping from her, and an unexplainable hush seemed to settle down upon her. Reverently lifting the card tied to the lilies, she read: "In loving remembrance of the joyful morrow." Joyful? Ah, not to her. And why not? Could there be any reason save that she had shut out of her life the influence of the risen Saviour? What if she had been lonely and misunderstood? Had she always been just to others? And had not He, the divine One, been misunderstood? Her tears were dripping on the waxen petals of the flowers. Burying her face in their cool depths, a fervent prayer rose from her heart.

The next morning was bright and sunny. The little church was gay with flowers, and to Miss Sarah the very air seemed alive with loving memories of the first Easter morning. "O day of joy and gladness!" sang the choir, and the heart of the spinster repeated the words over and over. At the close of the service she hastened to her brother's pew.

"How is your mamma, dear?" she asked Sadie in so sympathetic a tone that the girl's eyes opened wide. "What a little woman you are, Sadie, to keep the children so quiet through church. Here's a note for your father. You can tell him I will come over and talk to him after dinner. I'll bring your mamma some of my quince jelly. Poor thing, I wish she could get out these nice days."

John Grant was discouraged and disheartened, yet for his wife's sake he had tried to be cheerful that Easter morning. When Sadie laid the little note in his hand he opened it and read, while happy tears coursed down his cheeks: "Dear Brother: I will let you have the money to pay that mortgage. You and yours may pay the interest in love. Can you forget the past and take anew to your heart the sister who has just learned to follow the risen Lord? Lovingly yours, Sarah Grant." — Anna Johnson, in N. Y. Observer.

EASTER.

How Its Wonderful Deep Meaning May Be Incorporated into the Life of Every Day.

It seems clear that a pure spirit will arise from the seed of a pure body, and a loving spirit from the seed of a loving body. If the body we sorrowfully put aside has been one full of charity, helpful, kindly and eager to speak tender, pitying words—one that has thought no evil and has believed all things, and hoped all things, and endured all things—can anyone doubt what should come of such a seed planting? The natural comes first, and after that the spiritual. But "as is the natural, so is the spiritual." It is far more glorious, but, after all, the same!

So we may bring Easter, with its wonderful deep meaning, into the life of every day. How? By teaching ourselves to comprehend the truth that while we live this human life, and develop this natural body, it is not alone the natural body we are creating, but the seed of the spiritual body which is to come after.

This is not a mystical doctrine. All those who in this life have attained some knowledge of their spiritual natures will testify to its truth. The change from a natural to a spiritual living is like the growing of a plant whose seed we have sown. The right plant surely grows in a man who has sown the right seed.

As the spiritual nature of a man begins to develop, the purer, higher elements in him grow stronger, and one by one the baser sort die. Hate dies, and revenge and anger. Cruelty dies, and all unkindness. Narrowness of mind dies, and contempt for the frailties of others.

The part that lives and grows stronger is love. Purity and truth and courage are but parts of love, and as it grows greater, by and by comes the sureness of knowledge, and faith itself is swallowed up in fruition.

This is the daily burial of the old man who was "earthly," and the daily rising of the new, who is the "Lord from Heaven." To such a heart Easter comes every day.—Harper's Bazar.

At Two Sepulchers.
"He is not here! behold! He is not here! He broke the narrow bonds of His sealed prison."
Lo! He hath conquered death!
For this the angel saith,
"He is not here! The Christ is surely risen!"
A soul once dead hath found to-day new life!
A buried heart hath broken Sin's dark prison:
And on this Easter day
I heard the angels say:
"He is not here! He lives! This soul is risen!"

THE PAGE COILED SPRING WOVEN

WIRE FENCE.

MILLER & COLLINS, Agents,
PARIS, KENTUCKY.

This is a smooth fence that will turn any kind of stock. It is made from the best hard steel drawn specially for the purpose.

HOW IT IS MADE.
The large steel wires forming the horizontal bars are first coiled around a 3 inch rod, thus practically becoming
COILED SPRINGS their entire length.
These are securely tied together by 18 cross bars to the rod. The cross bars are best quality of annealed wire (galvanized), wrapped three times around each horizontal bar.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

Being a SELF REGULATOR it is ALWAYS ready for business, slacks up for 80 below as cheerfully as it takes a new grip for 90 in the shade, gently, but firmly persuades a runaway team to reconsider its action. An unruly bull is safe as a canary in its cage; it saith unto the festive hog, "thus far shalt thou go." The fierce wind and drifting snow pass by and it heeds them not.
There is no terror in the locomotive spark. The trespasser is not led into temptation, and the rail stealer's occupation is gone. The hired man and the lagging tramp, alike scorn it proffered shade. Like the model housewife, when well supported, it is always neat and tidy.

THREE POSTS TO THE 100 FEET.

Economy is not our sole object in placing posts for farm fence at the unusual distance of 20 to 30 feet apart.
Farmers say, "the closer the posts the better the fence." That may apply to common fences, but depending largely on its elasticity we PREFER the long panel. For cemeteries, lawns, yards, etc., they should of course be nearer, 12 to 20 feet is not objectionable.

We have completed (and are now building) a lot of this fence for Bourbon farmers and you can examine into its merits for yourself.

Estimates cheerfully furnished. You may put up the posts and we will build the fence, or we will contract to do the whole job. If you are needing any fence, see us. We will save you money and still build you the best fence made.

Respectfully,
MILLER & COLLINS,

The Page Wire Fence in Bourbon.

MILLERSBURG, KY., May 4, '96.

MESSRS. MILLER & COLLINS, Agents,
Paris, Kentucky.

Gentlemen:—I have had the Page Woven Wire Fence on my farm for about eighteen months and am well pleased with it. It has proved to be all that is claimed for it. It turns all kinds of stock and is as tight as it was the day it was put up and has stood some severe tests. A horse of one of my neighbors fell across the fence a few months ago but was not taken off for several hours but when taken off the fence went back to its place all right with the exception of a few staples. During the storm of April 24th a good-sized tree was blown across the fence and bent it down to the ground. As soon as the tree was cast off the fence went up all right and was as good as ever with the exception of one broken wire and a few staples out of place.

I am so well pleased with the fence that I am going to put up more of it right away. Respectfully,
WM. BECRAFT.

The Wonderful Kava-Kava Shrub.

A New Botanical Discovery—Of Special Interest to Sufferers from Diseases of the Kidneys or Bladder, Rheumatism, etc.—A Blessing to Humanity.

A Free Gift of Great Value to You.

Our readers will be glad to know that the new botanical discovery, Alkavis, from the wonderful Kava-Kava shrub has proved an assured cure for all diseases caused by Uric acid in the blood, or by disordered action of the kidneys or urinary organs. The Kava-Kava shrub, or Piper Methysticum, grows on the banks of the Ganges river, East India. It is a powerful diuretic and has been used for centuries by the natives before its extraordinary properties became known to civilization through Christian missionaries. In this respect it resembles the discovery of quinine from the peruvian bark, made known by the Indians to the early Jesuit missionaries in South America, and by them brought to civilized man. It is a wonderful discovery, with a record of 1200 hospital cures in 30 days. It acts directly upon the blood and kidneys, and is a true specific, just as quinine is in malaria. We have the strongest testimony of many ministers of the gospel, well-known doctors and business men cured by Alkavis, when all other remedies had failed.

In the New York Weekly World of Sept. 10th, the testimony of Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., of Washington, D. C., was given, describing his years of suffering from kidney disease and Rheumatism, and his rapid cure by Alkavis. Rev. Thomas Smith, the Methodist minister at Cobden, Illinois, passed nearly one hundred gravel stones after two weeks' use of Alkavis. Rev. John H. Watson, of Sunset, Texas, a minister of the gospel of thirty years' service, was struck down at his post of duty by kidney disease. After hovering between life and death for two months, and all his doctors having failed, he took Alkavis, and was completely restored to health and strength, and is fulfilling his duties as minister of the gospel. Mr. K. C. Wood, a prominent attorney of Lowell, Indiana, was cured of Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder disease of ten years standing, by Alkavis. Mr. Wood describes himself as being in constant misery, often compelled to rise ten times during the night on account of weakness of the bladder. He was treated by all his home physicians, and received the least benefit, and finally completely cured in a few weeks by Alkavis. The testimony is undoubted and really wonderful. Mrs. James Young, of Kent, Ohio, writes that she had tried six doctors in vain, that she was about to give up in despair, when she found Alkavis and was promptly cured of kidney disease and restored to health. Many other ladies also testify to the wonderful curative powers of Alkavis in the various disorders peculiar to womanhood.

So far the Church Kidney Cure Company, No. 412 Fourth Avenue, New York, are the only importers of this new remedy, and they are so anxious to prove its value that for the sake of introduction they will send a free treatment of Alkavis prepaid by mail to every reader of this paper who is a sufferer from any form of Kidney or Bladder disorder, Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Pain in Back, Female Complaints, or other affliction due to improper action of the Kidneys or Urinary Organs. We advise all sufferers to send their names and address to the company, and receive the Alkavis free. It is sent to you entirely free, to prove its wonderful curative powers.

HEAT PHOTOGRAPHS.

Substances Sensitive to Weak Radiation from a Heated Body.

The invisible radiations from a heated body possess the power of effecting certain chemical decompositions much after the manner of lights, as, for instance, in photography, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Among the substances sensitive to weak radiations of heat may be mentioned paper saturated with cupric bromide, or a mixture of sulphate of copper and potassium bromide, which has a faint greenish tint that becomes olive brown in radiant heat, and if green is used a brown image can be obtained in a minute by exposing to the radiations from a gas stove and on treatment with silver nitrate this image becomes black by reason of the reduction of the silver. Bichromated paper is affected by radiant heat, as by light, and paper impregnated simply with sulphate of copper yields a feeble image, which becomes nearly black when treated with silver nitrate. A mixture of sulphate of copper and oxalic acid gives a paper which becomes brown on exposure. Chlorate of copper is also very sensitive, the faint blue color becoming a deep green. Similarly used bromide of tin behaves as if exposed to light, but unexposed parts become very black when treated with silver nitrate. Nitrate of silver, which is markedly acted upon by light, is slightly browned when exposed to heat radiation, and the tint is deepened by hydroquinone or gallic acid.

THE COLD IS CRUEL.

Dwellers in Northeast Siberia Experience Untold Sufferings.

The St. Petersburg Geographical society has published the results of an exploration among the Yakuti, a people dwelling in a region of Northeast Siberia, covering an area of over 2,000,000 square miles, yet numbering no more than 200,000 souls. They are gathered mostly on the banks of the great rivers. The climate is a terrible one. There are not more than 96 days in the year free from frost, which begins in the middle of September and lasts to the middle of May. By October 15 the land is covered with a solid mantle of snow and ice, which begins to melt at the end of April. The cold is the most intense on the globe, and the temperature is lower than any recorded round the pole. It is greater on the southern plateau than further north on the shores of the Arctic ocean. During its continuation the atmospheric condition is one of undisturbed calm. There is not wind enough to move a twig, not a bird cleaves the still air. The silence is complete, and all nature is in deep sleep. Yet the climate is exhilarating on account of its dryness, and day and night have equal temperature. The short summer is sudden and very hot. The people are of Turko-Tartar origin.

SWANTE PALMA, the Swedish vice consul at Austin, Tex., has presented to the University of Texas 25,000 books, valued at $100,000. The collection, which he spent 50 years in gathering, includes valuable books on history, biography and art.

THE FARMING WORLD.

NEW HEATING DEVICE.

Successfully Introduced in a Number of Ohio Creameries.

The accompanying illustration is something new as a heating device in creamery work. Its use is to displace the tempering vat so commonly in use in most creameries, and which takes much valuable time to clean, aside from the often continued roaring noise made from steam entering the water inside.

Some objections have been raised to using live steam in milk for heating it preparatory for the separator, especially in extreme cold weather, claiming that the excessive expansion causes the butter globules to become so suddenly heated as to produce a foreign taste in the churned butter.

Sometimes the water used in boiler may not be good and harm may come from that source, but the same steam

FINE MILK HEATER.

S. Separator; P. Pump; O. Overflow; S. P. Steam Pipe; F. Faucets; H. Heater; M. P. Milk Pipe.

used about the creamery for cleansing purposes would do harm also; hence it is important that nothing but pure water be used about either boiler or the building. In case the weather is cold, and to avoid putting too much steam direct into the milk, it is important then to heat the water under the receiver vats to at least half the necessary temperature for separating.

I know quite a number of creameries that have put this simple device in during the past summer, and find that it not only lessens labor, but that by its use a better and more even temperature can be obtained than by the use of the tempering vat, and the cleaning of it does not require one-fifth of the time that the usual vats require. The cleansing is done by pumping warm water through the pipes and then steaming them thoroughly for about three minutes.

The illustration is simple and almost explains itself. M. P. represents the milk pipe or hose extending from the milk vat to P. pump, which raises the milk into the pipe joined onto the pump. The milk naturally flows down to the point H, where a half-inch pipe, S. P., is inserted into a T large enough to take an inch galvanized iron pipe, the end being plugged up tight and a number of small holes drilled in on side for the escape of steam in small jets. The half-inch pipe joins on the three-quarter-inch by a reducer just below a globe valve which regulates the volume of steam.

The pipes O O are to allow overflow when the stopcock at F is partially closed up, with the point O over milk vat. The valve at base of pump also regulates the flow of milk into separator (S). In case the flow vat is at an elevation above separator, it is only necessary to extend the pipe from point H directly into vat, and the only thing necessary would be a globe valve next to vat, with the steam jet and (F) faucet.

Not long since while at Sandusky institute, and discussing the creamery subject, I mentioned this labor-saving device, and a young man from Huron, O., made special inquiry about it. In less than a week he had one in their creamery, and writes that it is simply "out of sight" in every respect, and wishes to thank me for putting him onto the idea. I know of five creameries that are using the device, and they are making butter that grades first-class everywhere and at all times, and for such reasons do not hesitate to recommend its use under the conditions noted in this article.—George E. Scott, in Ohio Farmer.

NATIONAL HIGHWAYS.

Unique Plan Advocated by a Prohibition Paper.

A writer in the Prohibitionist has a new highway scheme, namely, to nationalize all the public roads of the United States. Let the people initiate the project by requesting the United States congress to enact a law authorizing the interior department to co-operate with the respective states in establishing and constructing a boundary line road or boulevard of liberal width, limited grade, in straight courses, and, as may be possible, following the existing boundary line of the respective states. These roads, when completed, to form the exact boundary lines of the states—the United States authorities to have the right of way in locating and constructing, paying a fair price for labor and land; all expenses to be paid with labor exchange money, issued by the United States, which is to be exchangeable for all other money issued by the government and receivable for all debts. Each state is to bear a proportionate share of the expense for the maintenance of these roads. The same system to be followed later in making boundary line roads for counties and townships.

Uncle John Patterson says that dairying goes well with fruit growing. "We want cream with our berries." The great advantage in dairying is that it builds up the farm. There is manure for building up the poor spots and the land can be improved every year.

THE FARM GARDEN.

How to Keep the Ground Occupied from Spring to Fall.

The garden is the most productive acre of the farm. If it is not, it should be made so. It is the most indispensable part of farm life. Half of our living should come from our garden in summer. Not one-half the country people make an effort to have a garden. There are some that start out well in the spring, sow an abundance of seed and never look at the garden again until they think it is time they should have results. They take a look and cannot find any for the weeds have covered the little plants. Then they come to the conclusion that the seed did not grow. They say all sorts of things about the seedmen, and mow off the weeds and wait until another spring, when they go through the same process. Now this is all wrong. To keep the garden clean we should begin early and continue the cultivation until fall. It is impossible to destroy all the weeds while we are cultivating the early vegetables. Little patches of weeds around the garden will produce seed enough to seed the whole garden next year. We should try to plan so as to keep all the ground occupied in the garden. It will require but little more labor to cultivate a cabbage or turnip in a vacant place than simply to cultivate to keep down the weeds. You can sow lettuce in July and it will be nice in the fall. Cabbage and turnip can be transplanted into the ground where the early peas and potatoes have grown; or you can set celery and beets for winter use. Keep all the ground occupied. If clean cultivation is given, as should be done, the weeds will be killed out and at the same time a good crop secured. Thinning out plants is an important matter in gardening; beets and carrots will not grow to any size if left too thick. No vegetable but the onion will stand crowding. If the soil is rich enough onions will grow to a good size when five or six stand together; they will crowd each other out of the ground all but the roots and will bottom nicely. The onion maggot destroys onions badly; a good remedy is to take the soil away from the bulbs no matter if the little onions tip over; so long as the roots are in the ground they are all right. By doing this the fly has no chance to put its eggs on the stalks and then there are no maggots in the bulbs.—Mrs. J. W. Ferres, in Farm and Home.

CULTURE OF MELONS.

Their Successful Growth Requires Lots of Plant Food.

Watermelons are excessive feeders, and many fail in attempting to grow them because they do not furnish sufficient plant food to supply the necessary strength for vigorous vine and fine fruit. Not infrequently watermelon vines turn yellow and die when they should be just in their prime, simply from plant starvation.

I prepare the ground as for corn. Lay off in rows 12 feet apart each way. I dig a hole about 1½ feet deep and perhaps three feet in diameter. In the bottom of this I put a peck or more of good stable manure, tramping it lightly. Next put in a layer of soil, and follow with a layer made up of equal parts of soil and fine rich manure thoroughly mixed, and lastly, where the seeds are to be placed, another layer of pure soil. Sow seeds thickly and cover about one inch. When the second or third leaf shows, thin out two or three plants in the hill. If exceptionally large melons, regular "prize takers," are desired, thin to but one plant in the hill. I cultivate about as I do corn, hoeing each hill after an entire patch is plowed. If very dry, cultivate often, particularly about the hills. It is some trouble to thus prepare the ground, but it more than pays in the size, number and quality of melons produced, also in the increased length of time that the vines are in bearing, as they remain green and in good condition until killed by frost.—Orange Judd Farmer.

WATERING THAT PAYS.

Simple System of Sub-Irrigation for Flower Beds.

The experiments that have been tried in introducing water freely below beds of growing plants have proved conclusively the value of this kind of watering. The cross section given herewith shows how one may readily try this experiment for himself this spring. Select the spot where a small bed is to be devoted to foliage or other plants, and sink an empty keg in the center just below the position of the coming roots. Fit an old piece of tin pipe, as suggested in the sketch, and your "irrigating plant" is ready for business! Not only can water be thus freely applied, but liquid manure also. The keg, it should be said, should not be one that will "hold water."—Orange Judd Farmer.

A Profitable Garden Crop.

Spinach is an important crop in our market gardens and one of the most easily managed of vegetables, requiring but little culture, and may be had fit for use the entire season. The main crop is sown in August or September for spring use, and, although extremely hard, requires to be protected by a light covering of hay or straw during the winter. For summer use it may be sown at intervals of two or three weeks, from April to August. Spinach is best developed and most tender and succulent when grown in a rich soil.

Opium and Whisky Habits.

The letter quoted below, written March 23, 1896, by the editor and manager of the Sheffield, Ala., Standard, leaves no room to doubt that a successful treatment for the cure of the liquor habit exists:

"Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.: Your antidote for the liquor habit will do all you claim for it. After drinking whisky for more than twenty years I find myself entirely relieved of the accursed appetite through the use of three bottles of your medicine. It is absolutely a specific for the liquor habit, and leaves no bad effects."

"E. M. RAGLAND."
Shimston, W. Va.—Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.: I have been cured, and never had any call for opium after taking the first dose of your Antidote. You wanted to know if you might use my letter. Yes, and my name, also. Any one may write to me if they wish to know of my cure or ask any questions as to the efficacy of the Antidote, and if they enclose stamp I will answer.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Always to Be Found.

A great advantage in using the ammunition manufactured by the Winchester Arms Co., New Haven, Ct., is said that it can always be found even in the most remote and out of the way parts of the world. There are so many Winchester guns in use that there is a great demand for Winchester ammunition everywhere. No matter what kind of a gun you shoot, you can get ammunition for it if you ask for the Winchester make. This great house makes all sizes of metallic cartridges from BB caps to 58-caliber and in shot gun ammunition from 4 to 20 gauge. All ammunition bearing the name Winchester will give entire satisfaction. Send for large illustrated catalogue free.

FANCY-DRESS BALL IN LONDON.

English Men and Women Take Their Pleasure Seriously.

A fancy-dress ball in London is slow. The streets around Covent garden on a fancy-dress ball night are as solemn as Scotland itself, says Scribner's. A few homeless Londoners are kept at respectful distance by the police, while a procession of carriages goes slowly under the archway and deposits serious merry-makers, dressed as stoves, light-houses, monks, lamps and vegetables. Owing to these elaborate disguises the journey past the ticket-takers and to the ballroom is slow. On the ballroom floor officials, totally void of a sense of humor and dressed in black velvet and cut steel buttons, keep the center of the floor clear, apparently for their own use, and stand ready to subdue any burst of light heartedness that might appear in the circle that is kept moving about them. The general orders are "keep moving along." The man who manages the searchlight, from one of the top boxes, probably enjoys the ball the most. He certainly does more to help it. The center of interest is wherever he will have it. He can make a dull costume bright and a supper party in one of the boxes proud; and he can almost remove the gloom caused by the officials in black.

The Man who is Raising a Big Crop —realizes that the harvest time is ahead. Ideal farming comprehends not only the growing of the tallest grain—the most tons-to-the-acre of hay; the best farming—the farming that pays—must contemplate something more than this for there is a harvest time, and just in proportion as a crop is saved successfully, speedily and economically, in just that proportion may be measured the season's profit or loss.

McCORMICK

Harvesting Machines are the profit-bringing kind; they are built for long wear, hard work, light draft, and in short, to satisfy. There are other kinds that don't cost as much, but there's nothing cheaper than the best.

McCormick Harvesting Machine Company, Chicago, The Light-Running McCormick Open Elevator Harvester, The Light-Running McCormick New 4 Steel Mower, The Light-Running McCormick Vertical Corn Binder and The Light-Running McCormick Dairy Reaper for sale everywhere.

REASONS FOR USING

Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast Cocoa.

1. Because it is absolutely pure.
2. Because it is not made by the so-called Dutch Process in which chemicals are used.
3. Because beans of the finest quality are used.
4. Because it is made by a method which preserves unimpaired the exquisite natural flavor and odor of the beans.
5. Because it is the most economical, costing less than one cent a cup.

C. F. CLAY 4766.

RECORD 2:18.

Sire of Coleridge 2:05, Choral 2:08, Arthur W. 2:11, Claybourne 2:11, Connor 2:12, Clarine 2:13, Cling 2:14, Lee 2:15, and thirty-nine others in 2:30 list.

Sired by CALIBAN 394, Record 2:34.

(Sire of Cyclone 2:23, the sire of Gillette 2:11, Dr. Sparks 2:12, Cicerone 2:13, Cyclone Wilkes 2:14, Cocoon 2:15, and sixteen others in 2:30.)

1 dam, Soprano (dam of Eminence 2:18, Strathbridge 2:24, Ambryon 2:19), Supremacy 2:28, granddam of Red Silk 2:10, Brown Silk 2:19, (the dam of sixty-five and of the dams of over seventy from 2:09 to 2:30.)

2 dam, Abess (dam of Steinway 3:25, Solo 2:28, Currency 2:22, etc.) by Albion.

3 dam by Marshal Ney, son of Imp Emancipation.

CALIBAN 394, by Mambrino Pilot 29; dam, Cassia, by Cassius M. Clay, Jr., 22, etc.

STRATHMORE 408, by Hambletonian 10; dam, Lady Waltemire (dam of Marshal Ney 2034) by North American; 2 dam by Hambletonian 2.

C. F. Clay is a horse of great finish and style, in fact as much so as any horse we know of. Is a beautiful mahogany bay, with black points, and stands 15.3 hands high. His pedigree is full of the richest producing blood which has year after year added new and brilliant performers to the turf, for instance: Nannie Etli-coat, out of his dam, has given in 1896 Red Silk 2:10 and Brown Silk 2:19, the latter the dam of China Silk, two-year-old record 2:16, beyond question the best two-year-old filly of 1896. As a two, three and five-year-old, C. F. Clay was campaigned and landed many good races, securing his record of 2:18. His first crop of foals came in his six-year-old form and for several years afterward he was the leading sire, when age of foals was considered. His get all possess his grand individuality and are especially speedy; and as to race-horse qualities the performances of Coleridge 2:05, Choral 2:08, Connor 2:11, Arthur W. 2:11, and others are too recent and of too much merit to need any comment. But few better sires than C. F. Clay are now in the stud. His colts are not only trotters but are show horses as well, having probably been awarded as many premiums at the leading fairs as the get of any horse in Kentucky. C. F. Clay will make the season of 1897 at Emerald Park Stock Farm, 5 1/2 miles north of Paris, at
